

James Alec Hardy

16:13 - 20 FEB 2019

James Alec Hardy graduated from Camberwell College of Art in 2002, and currently lives and works in London.

Since graduating, James has focused his practice on the impact of technologies on our experience of life. He uses analogue video systems to manifest ideas through performance, sculpture, installation and print.

James' artworks are created from former equipment made redundant in broadcasting with the onset of digital transmission. His output from his studio is challenging and engaging. Projects include constructing multi-screen video works arranged into symbolic motifs and sculptural totems; from 3 month long shamanic residencies in fields, to 3 days' live feedback performances at major cultural institutions.
